The two Colleges are now under the administrative control of the Inspector-General of Education. Until the University Regulation comes into force, it is necessary to make some ad-interim arrangements. I first thought that it might be sufficient to request the Inspector-General of Education to address Government in all matters requiring Government Orders after consulting the President of the University Committee; but as there are some obvious objections to this course, I think that whatever administrative control is now exercised by the Inspector General of Education over the two Colleges may be transferred to the President of the University Committee. A draft letter on these lines is submitted for approval or other orders.
